King Emmanuel Abdicates, Says Vichy Radio

CRISIS FACING ITALY RAPIDLY DRAWS TO HEAD

Badoglio Makes Overtures To Achieve Coalition Among Leaders

Various Factions May Get Chance To Meet, Work Out Ruling Plan

LONDON, Nov. 4—The abdication of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy was reported today by the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio. There was no immediate confirmation for some time that the Italian monarch would give up his throne in order to facilitate establishment of a free Italian government under Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

Later, a Zurich dispatch to Reuters' News Agency quoted reports current along the Italian frontier as asserting that the abdication of the Italian king "appear definitely decided."

NAPLES, Nov. 4—That the political crisis facing the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio was rapidly drawing to a head grew more obvious today as he attempted subtle overtures in an effort to achieve a coalition among leaders of the various liberated sections of Italy.

Badoglio's first move was to send a proposal to King Victor Emmanuel that the prohibition of political parties be revoked, which would allow various factions to meet and work out their own governmental program "as a preparatory step toward formation of a definite coalition."

His second overture was directed to the Allies. Badoglio called attention to the disinclination of prominent Italian leaders to participate without reservations even in a coalition which had as its sole aim the liberation of Italy. Badoglio asked guidance on the advisability of continuing the present reduced government under the armistice arrangement originally offered by him.

Badoglio did suggest, however, one exception to the original armistice arrangement—that he would resign as soon as the Nazis are expelled from Italian territory.

Badoglio said that while awaiting response to his overtures, and in view of the obvious difficulties of equipping an army of sufficient size to enter the fighting front, he was doing preliminary work on organization of a volunteer corps. War-weary Italian soldiers would thus be weeded out and the numbers of weapons which the Allies would have to supply would thus be appreciably limited.

Pre-Pearl Harbor Dads From County Called To Induction Center

Pickaway county's first draft contingent which includes pre-Pearl Harbor fathers went to the Columbus induction center Thursday for final physical examination prior to acceptance into the armed forces. Filling the Pickaway county selective service board's November quota, three-fifths of the contingent included pre-Pearl Harbor dads.

Draft board said that the October call included some pre-Pearl Harbor fathers also, but the men who were sent in that group had not abided by selective service regulations, either by declining to enter essential industry or by failing to follow other recommendations.

Richest Girl Sues

DIVORCE suit against her husband, James H. R. Cromwell, former U. S. minister to Canada, has been filed in Reno by Doris Duke Cromwell, tobacco heiress and "world's wealthiest girl." Married since 1935 but separated for three years, she charges mental cruelty and accuses Cromwell of attempting to obtain control of a $7,000,000 share of her vast fortune.

GOP LANDSLIDE MAY HALT FDR

Informed Democrats in Capital Say President Will Not Run

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Two new rumors about the 1944 presidential race are circulating in Washington today as an aftermath of the Republican landslide in Tuesday's election.

They are: 1. (By Democrats) that President Franklin D. Roosevelt will not be a candidate for a fourth term. 2. (By Republicans) that General Douglas MacArthur will be grafted from his South Pacific army command as the GOP standard-bearer next year if Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, persists in making himself unavailable for the 1944 campaign. The rumor that Mr. Roosevelt proposes to retire at the end of his third term started among highly-placed Democrats. It pictures the President as tired of his great tasks and preferring to turn the reins of government over to another leader, after he completes twelve years in the White House.

The rumor says that Mr. Roosevelt feels he has set up the machinery not only to win the war, but to preserve peace in the post-war world. It says Mr. Roosevelt (Continued on Page Three)

STRIKING COAL MINERS START BACK TO JOBS

Tentative New Contract Provides Nearly All Of Wage Demands

HEAVY LOSS OF FUEL

Ickes Announces Agreement After Workers Defy Roosevelt Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Striking coal miners started back to their jobs today under a tentative new contract providing nearly all of the $2-a-day wage increase which mine chief, John L. Lewis, first demanded seven months ago. The 460,000 bituminous miners—ordered by union officials to resume production in the government-seized pits "at the earliest possible moment"—will receive $1.50 a day more, however, only for an hour's extra work digging war-vital coal.

An estimated 80,000 anthracite mine workers were promised in the agreement, negotiated between Lewis and Federal Mine Custodian Harold L. Ickes, 70 cents a day additional pay. The work day of the hard coal diggers was lengthened 15 minutes.

The new contract, signaling the end of the three-day old fourth war-time coal strike which cost the nation more than 6,000,000 tons of fuel, still must be approved by the War Labor Board which was scheduled to meet on it during the day. One provision may raise objections from WLB.

Announced By Ickes

Ickes announced the agreement after the mine workers had defied for 24 hours a back-to-work order from President Roosevelt, waiting for specific instructions from Lewis and the United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee which ratified the proposal. The resumption of work now is expected to be gradual with full— (Continued on Page Three)

HULL AND EDEN LEAVE MOSCOW ON WAY HOME

MOSCOW, Nov. 4—The Soviet radio announced today that United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden left Moscow Wednesday for home after conclusion of the historic war conferences.

Enroute to London Eden is expected to stop off in Cairo to confer with Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu, who arrived in the Egyptian capital Wednesday to await Eden's arrival. American Ambassador to Turkey Laurence A. Steinhardt—and possibly Hull, too—may sit in on the meetings.

Solons Reduce Federal Spending Program By 82 Percent to 167 Millions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Long-smoldering congressional sentiment for economy exploded into the open today when the house appropriations committee slashed a billion-dollar supplemental budget program by 82 percent and sent the measure to the floor containing only $167,000,000.

Designated the "first supplemental national defense appropriation bill" for the 1944 fiscal year, the measure carried extra funds for nearly two-score government agencies allied with the war effort.

Noting that virtually every one of them sustained heavy cuts, Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D) Mo., hailed the economy move as a "milestone in the history of congressional appropriations."

"It is the heaviest reduction ever made in a general appropriations bill by the committee on appropriations," Cannon said.

Chief feature of the committee's action was an opening move to recapture a substantial part of 60 billion dollars in war funds previously appropriated by congress but as yet unobligated and unspent by the war agencies.

To tap this huge pool of money for the first time, the committee disallowed a $750,000,000 budget request by President Roosevelt for the navy's stock fund and directed that a transfer of the money (Continued on Page Three)

DRAFT CATCHES DAD OF EIGHT

Army May Have To Pay Allison Family Total Of $248 Monthly

"I'm no better than any one else, and if Uncle Sam needs me he can have me. My family will get along."

That was the expression voiced Thursday by Clarence Allison, 35, of 415 East Union street, as he went to the Columbus induction center for final physical examination which may lead him into service. Allison is the father of eight children, oldest of them being 13 and the youngest a little more than one.

Allison is a plumber, apparently in good health. Uncle Sam needs men with technical training such as plumbing provides, so the Union street man "wouldn't be surprised" if he passes.

"I've felt all along that older men should be fighting this war," Allison said as he prepared to board a bus at the courthouse. "It hurts mighty hard when I see 18 year old kids being taken out of school and put into a uniform."

By declaring that his family "would get along," Allison meant that its members have nothing to worry about so far as finances are concerned.

As near as he can figure, he, as an Army private, his wife and his eight children would receive $248 each month from Uncle Sam. "That is an awful lot of money for a buck private," the Circleville plumber declared.

FOUR JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES GET LONG SENTENCES

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4—Four Jehovah's Witnesses faced five year sentences today for failing to report for induction. They were Ralph R. Koib, 20, Cincinnati; Robert Aclen Fischer, 19, Milford; Frank A. White, 21, Hillsboro; and Walter E. Ruth, 21, Wheelersburg.

Federal District Judge John H. Druffel told them: "I believe that if Jehovah should speak, He would say He is sick and tired of men such as you relying on Him to keep you out of the Army. We have a big battle to fight, and you must realize that if the Japs and Germans should invade this country, the Jehovah's Witnesses would go into slavery with the rest of us."

Two Circleville Jehovah's Witnesses, James Matthew Grubb and John Wade Grubb, are awaiting action by the U. S. grand jury, scheduled to meet in December. Both have been bound to the grand jury by Judge Mell G. Underwood. The former is free under $5,000 bond, while the latter remains in Columbus city jail unable to make bond. Both failed to report for induction in the Army.

JAP INCIDENT AT TULE LAKE NOW ADMITTED

TULE LAKE, Cal. Nov. 4—Ray Best, director of the Tule Lake relocation center, today admitted, for the first time, that an "incident" had occurred at the camp during the visit last Monday of national officials of the War Relocation Authority.

Best said the instigators of the so called "riot" were Japanese from Jerome, Ark., and originally from Hawaii.

Meanwhile, the question of whether or not there had been any trouble at the Tule Lake camp became more muddled as Edward M. Joyce, west coast WRA public relations director, reiterated his denial that there had been a "riot" among the disloyal Japs at the camp as reported.

Joyce insisted that there had been "no trouble" during the visit of Dillon S. Myer, national WRA director, and reports that Myer and Robert Cozzens, regional WRA director, had been held prisoners while 8,000 Japs, many of them armed, were in control of the center for more than four hours, were branded by Joyce as "absolutely without foundation."

Earlier the Tule Lake Civilian Defense Council accused the WRA officials with failure to release "all of the facts" about Monday's reported uprising and demanded immediate government intervention to prevent trouble which the council said might spread to the surrounding area.

KENNEY SOUNDS RABAU'S DOOM

Key Jap Base To Be Blasted Until It Ceases To Exist, General Says

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 4—Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, Allied airforce commander in the southwest Pacific, said today that the key Jap base of Rabaul would be blasted by the Allied air force until it "ceased to exist."

In an interview with International News Service, the hard-fighting, realistic chief of the Fifth Air Force, declared that Tuesday's victory when B-25 bombers blasted Rabaul harbor and devastated shipping there was the "biggest thing that has happened in the Pacific since Pearl Harbor."

"This victory," he said, "definitely proved that whether the Japs know it or not, Rabaul is doomed! It's doomed because we are going to blast it block by block. We're going to chase his shipping from the harbor, knock out his air force and burn every building in the area. We're going to tear the place apart and bury it!"

General Kenney pointed out that Rabaul, long the Jap's main operational base in the South Pacific, is rapidly becoming a defensive base, and that the recent heavy Allied pounding had prevented the enemy from using his air strength offensively and only the weather, which is bad three or four days a week, had allowed him to maintain fairly strong fighter protection.

"For some time now," the Fifth air force commander continued, "the enemy has been losing planes at a five-to-one ratio. That suits us fine. We will keep after his air force and Rabaul is the place where we'll get it."

Tuesday's blistering attack was made possible by the acquisition of island and other forward bases.

750 MILWAUKEE EMPLOYES QUIT IN WAGE STRIKE

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4—Many of Milwaukee's city services were crippled today by a strike of 750 municipal employees in protest against what the workers termed the failure of city authorities to meet demands for wage increase. The strikers, members of the state, county and municipal employees union, AFL, demanded an increase of $25 a month in basic pay, retroactive to August 1. The city council offered an increase of $15 a month.

Garbage and ash collection, street repairs and street cleaning and electrical service in Milwaukee were affected by the strike.

Russians Move Ahead And Japs Take Plastering At Rabaul

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Destruction of ten more Japanese vessels by long range U. S. submarines in the Pacific was announced today by the navy.

At the same time the navy announced that a lone American reconnaissance plane attacked and sank a 1,000 ton enemy freighter near Ocean Island, 220 miles west of the Gilbert Islands in the South Pacific.

Among the vessels sunk by submarines were one patrol craft, two tankers, six freighters and one cargo transport. Three other Japanese supply ships were damaged by the Yank subs.

The submarine score, announced today, boosted to 487 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk and damaged by American undersea craft since the outbreak of war.

BULLETIN ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 4—American cruisers and destroyers on Tuesday drove off a flotilla of at least 12 Japanese warships at the entrance to Empress Augusta bay, near New American bridgehead on Bougainville island in the Solomons, an official communique disclosed today.

By International News Service Allied troops in Italy who smashed the western flank of the Nazi defense line surged forward on the heels of the retreating enemy today.

At the same time London told of an attack "in strength" by RAF heavy bombers on Duesseldorf during the night which left the Rhineland industrial city spotted with heaps of flaming ruins. Cologne also received a call from the RAF heavy bombers before dawn while Mosquito bombers attacked other points in the Ruhr and Rhineland. Nineteen British aircraft were lost during the night. One Nazi ship was destroyed and at least four German planes shot down.

On the Italian front Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army smashed forward three miles into the Garigliano river valley, leaving the Massico ridge far behind and forcing the Germans to fall back into other prepared defenses.

Take Five Towns In its sweeping advance the Fifth army captured the towns of Massico, Sessa, Aurunca, Roccamarina and Presenzano.

Northeast of the Fifth Army, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army also drove ahead for an advance of five miles, capturing Castelpetro. This places Montgomery's left wing within 10 miles of the strategic enemy stronghold of Isernia on the center of the front.

At the northeastern extremity of the battle line Monty's veterans gave the enemy a tough beating in a slugfest around San Salvo. Here the Nazis hurled 20 Mar. IV tanks against them in an effort to dislodge the British hold across the Trigno river. This tank battle was described as the toughest armored engagement fought recently anywhere on the Italian front.

But the Germans were successfully beaten back and Montgomery moved forward to deepen his bridgeheads from which an attack on Vasto is planned.

Russ Victorious The news from the Russian front again told of major German reverses and continuing Soviet gains. Every dispatch from the long battlefield stretching from the Dnieper bend to the Black Sea sector told of tremendous Nazi casualties and of new localities wrested by the Red Army from the Germans.

Pre-Pearl Harbor Dads From County Called To Induction Center

Pickaway county's first draft contingent which includes pre-Pearl Harbor fathers went to the Columbus induction center Thursday for final physical examination prior to acceptance into the armed forces.

Filling the Pickaway county selective service board's November quota, three-fifths of the contingent included pre-Pearl Harbor dads.

Informal Democrats In Capital Say President Will Not Run

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Two new rumors about the 1944 presidential race are circulating in informal political circles in Washington today as an aftermath of the Republican landslide in Tuesday's election.

They are:

1. (By Democrats) that President Franklin D. Roosevelt will not be a candidate for a fourth term.

2. (By Republicans) that General Douglas MacArthur will be drafted from his South Pacific army command as the GOP standard-bearer next year if Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, persists in making himself unavailable for the 1944 campaign.

The rumor that Mr. Roosevelt proposes to retire at the end of his third term started among highly-placed Democrats. It pictures the President as tired of his great tasks and preferring to turn the reins of government over to another leader, after he completes twelve years in the White House.

The rumor says that Mr. Roosevelt feels he has set up the machinery not only to win the war, but to preserve peace in the post-war world. It says Mr. Roosevelt (Continued on Page Three)

STRIKING COAL MINERS START BACK TO JOBS

Tentative New Contract Provides Nearly All Of Wage Demands

HEAVY LOSS OF FUEL

Ickes Announces Agreement After Workers Defy Roosevelt Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Striking coal miners started back to their jobs today under a tentative new contract providing nearly all of the $2-a-day wage increase which mine chief, John L. Lewis, first demanded seven months ago.

The 460,000 bituminous miners—ordered by union officials to resume production in the government-seized pits "at the earliest possible moment"—will receive $1.50 a day more, however, only for an hour's extra work digging war-vital coal.

An estimated 80,000 anthracite mine workers were promised in the agreement, negotiated between Lewis and Federal Mine Custodian Harold L. Ickes, 70 cents a day additional pay. The work day of the hard coal diggers was lengthened 15 minutes.

The new contract, signaling the end of the three-day old fourth war-time coal strike which cost the nation more than 6,000,000 tons of fuel, still must be approved by the War Labor Board which was scheduled to meet on it during the day. One provision may raise objections from WLB.

Announced By Ickes

Ickes announced the agreement after the mine workers had defied for 24 hours a back-to-work order from President Roosevelt, waiting for specific instructions from Lewis and the United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee which ratified the proposal. The resumption of work now is expected to be gradual with full-

HULL AND EDEN LEAVE MOSCOW ON WAY HOME

MOSCOW, Nov. 4—The Soviet radio announced today that United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden left Moscow Wednesday for home after conclusion of the historic war conferences.

Enroute to London Eden is expected to stop off in Cairo to confer with Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioğlu, who arrived in the Egyptian capital Wednesday to await Eden's arrival. American Ambassador to Turkey Laurence A. Steinhardt—and possibly Hull, too—may sit in on the meetings.

Solons Reduce Federal Spending Program By 82 Percent to 167 Millions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Long-smoldering congressional sentiment for economy exploded into the open today when the house appropriations committee slashed a billion-dollar supplemental budget program by 82 percent and sent the measure to the floor containing only $167,000,000.

Designated the "first supplemental national defense appropriation bill" for the 1944 fiscal year, the measure carried extra funds for nearly two-score government agencies allied with the war effort.

Noting that virtually every one of them sustained heavy cuts, Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D) Mo., hailed the economy move as a "milestone in the history of congressional appropriations."

"It is the heaviest reduction ever made in a general appropriations bill by the committee on appropriations," Cannon said.

Chief feature of the committee's action was an opening move to capture a substantial part of 60 billion dollars in war funds previously appropriated by congress but as yet unobligated and unspent by the war agencies.

To tap this huge pool of money for the first time, the committee disallowed a $750,000,000 budget request by President Roosevelt for the navy's stock fund and directed that a transfer of the money (Continued on Page Three)

DRAFT CATCHES DAD OF EIGHT

Army May Have To Pay Allison Family Total Of $248 Monthly

"I'm no better than any one else, and if Uncle Sam needs me he can have me. My family will get along."

That was the expression voiced Thursday by Clarence Allison, 35, of 415 East Union street, as he went to the Columbus induction center for final physical examination which may lead him into service. Allison is the father of eight children, oldest of them being 13 and the youngest a little more than one.

Allison is a plumber, apparently in good health. Uncle Sam needs men with technical training such as plumbing provides, so the Union street man "wouldn't be surprised" if he passes.

"I've felt all along that older men should be fighting this war," Allison said as he prepared to board a bus at the courthouse. "It hurts mighty hard when I see 18 year old kids being taken out of school and put into a uniform."

By declaring that his family "would get along," Allison meant that its members have nothing to worry about so far as finances are concerned.

As near as he can figure, he as an Army private, his wife and his eight children would receive $248 each month from Uncle Sam.

"That is an awful lot of money for a buck private," the Circleville plumber declared.

FOUR JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES GET LONG SENTENCES

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4—Four Jehovah's Witnesses faced five year sentences today for failing to report for induction. They were Ralph R. Koib, 20, Cincinnati; Robert Aclen Fischer, 19, Milford; Frank A. White, 21, Hillsboro, and Walter E. Ruth, 21, Wheelersburg.

Federal District Judge John H. Druffel told them:

"I believe that if Jehovah should speak, He would say He is sick and tired of men such as you relying on Him to keep you out of the Army. We have a big battle to fight, and you must realize that if the Japs and Germans should invade this country, the Jehovah's Witnesses would go into slavery with the rest of us."

Two Circleville Jehovah's Witnesses, James Matthew Grubb and John Wade Grubb, are awaiting action by the U. S. grand jury, scheduled to meet in December. Both have been bound to the grand jury by Judge Mell G. Underwood. The former is free under $5,000 bond, while the latter remains in Columbus city jail unable to make bond. Both failed to report for induction in the Army.

JAP INCIDENT AT TULE LAKE NOW ADMITTED

TULE LAKE, Cal. Nov. 4—Ray Best, director of the Tule Lake relocation center, today admitted, for the first time, that an "incident" had occurred at the camp during the visit last Monday of national officials of the War Relocation Authority.

Best said the instigators of the so called "riot" were Japanese from Jerome, Ark., and originally from Hawaii.

Meanwhile, the question of whether or not there had been any trouble at the Tule Lake camp became more muddled as Edward M. Joyce, west coast WRA public relations director, reiterated his denial that there had been a "riot" among the disloyal Japs at the camp as reported.

Joyce insisted that there had been "no trouble" during the visit of Dillon S. Myer, national WRA director, and reports that Myer and Robert Cozzens, regional WRA director, had held prisoners while 8,000 Japs, many of them armed, were in control of the center for more than four hours, were branded by Joyce as "absolutely without foundation."

Earlier the Tule Lake Civilian Defense Council accused the WRA officials with failure to release "all of the facts" about Monday's reported uprising and demanded immediate government intervention to prevent trouble which the council said might spread to the surrounding area.

KENNEY SOUNDS RABAU'S DOOM

Key Jap Base To Be Blasted Until It Ceases To Exist, General Says

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 4—Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, Allied airforce commander in the southwest Pacific, said today that the key Jap base of Rabaul would be blasted by the Allied air force until it "ceased to exist."

In an interview with International News Service, the hard-fighting, realistic chief of the Fifth Air Force, declared that Tuesday's victory when B-25 bombers blasted Rabaul harbor and devastated shipping there was the "biggest thing that has happened in the Pacific since Pearl Harbor."

"This victory," he said, "definitely proved that whether the Japs know it or not, Rabaul is doomed! It's doomed because we are going to blast it block by block. We're going to chase his shipping from the harbor, knock out his air force and burn every building in the area. We're going to tear the place apart and bury it!"

General Kenney pointed out that Rabaul, long the Jap's main operational base in the South Pacific, is rapidly becoming a defensive base, and that the recent heavy Allied pounding had prevented the enemy from using his air strength offensively and only the weather, which is bad three or four days a week, had allowed him to maintain fairly strong fighter protection.

"For some time now," the Fifth air force commander continued, "the enemy has been losing planes at a five-to-one ratio. That suits us fine. We will keep after his air force and Rabaul is the place where we'll get it."

Tuesday's blistering attack was made possible by the acquisition of island and other forward bases.

750 MILWAUKEE EMPLOYES QUIT IN WAGE STRIKE

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4—Many of Milwaukee's city services were crippled today by a strike of 750 municipal employees in protest against what the workers termed the failure of city authorities to meet demands for wage increase.

The strikers, members of the state, county and municipal employees union, AFL, demanded an increase of $25 a month in basic pay, retroactive to August 1. The city council offered an increase of $15 a month.

Garbage and ash collection, street repairs and street cleaning and electrical service in Milwaukee were affected by the strike.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Destruction of ten more Japanese vessels by long range U. S. submarines in the Pacific was announced today by the navy.

At the same time the navy announced that a lone American reconnaissance plane attacked and sank a 1,000 ton enemy freighter near Ocean Island, 220 miles west of the Gilbert islands in the South Pacific.

Among the vessels sunk by submarines were one patrol craft, two tankers, six freighters and one cargo transport. Three other Japanese supply ships were damaged by the Yank subs.

The submarine score, announced today, boosted to 487 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk and damaged by American undersea craft since the outbreak of war.

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 4—American cruisers and destroyers on Tuesday drove off a fleet of at least 12 Japanese warships at the entrance to Empress Augusta bay, new American bridgehead on Bougainville island in the Solomons, an official communique disclosed today.

By International News Service Allied troops in Italy who smashed the western flank of the Nazi defense line surged forward on the heels of the retreating enemy today.

At the same time London told of an attack "in strength" by RAF heavy bombers on Duesseldorf during the night which left the Rhineland industrial city spotted with heaps of flaming ruins. Cologne also received a call from the RAF heavy bombers before dawn while Mosquito bombers attacked other points in the Ruhr and Rhineland. Nineteen British aircraft were lost during the night. One Nazi ship was destroyed and at least four German planes shot down.

On the Italian front Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army smashed forward three miles into the Garigliano river valley, leaving the Maccione ridge far behind and forcing the Germans to fall back into other prepared defenses.

Take Five Towns

In its sweeping advance the Fifth army captured the towns of Massico, Sessa, Aunanza, Roccamonfina and Presenzano.

Northeast of the Fifth Army, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army also drove ahead for an advance of five miles, capturing Castelpetroso. This places Montgomery's left wing within 10 miles of the strategic enemy stronghold of Isernia on the center of the front.

At the northeastern extremity of the battle line Monty's veterans gave the enemy a tough beating in a slugfest around San Salvo. Here the Nazis hurled 20 Mar IV tanks against them in an effort to dislodge the British hold across the Trigno river. This tank battle was described as the toughest armored engagement fought recently anywhere on the Italian front.

But the Germans were successfully beaten back and Montgomery moved forward to deepen his bridgeheads from which an attack on Vasto is planned.

Russ Victorious

The news from the Russian front again told of major German reverses and continuing Soviet gains. Every dispatch from the long battlefield stretching from the Dnieper bend to the Black Sea sector told of tremendous Nazi casualties and of new localities wrested by the Red Army from the Germans.

AUTO AND BIKE QUOTAS DROP FOR NOVEMBER

Exact Figures Not Given But Reduction Said To Be Heavy

STATE CUT ONE-THIRD

Critical War-Time Need For Material Prompts OPA Action

Reduction of bicycle and new automobile quotas for sale in Pickaway county during November was announced Thursday by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office. Definite figures concerning the number of bicycles and automobiles available are not being announced although the reduction under the number available a month ago is heavy.

State OPA officials said that the number of bicycles available in the state has been reduced one third. Automobile reduction is fixed at 35 percent.

Because of the critical wartime need for materials used in making bicycles there were only 30,833 set aside for rationing in the entire nation for the month of November.

Conserving Cars

OPA said the automobile quota reduction was made necessary when officials decided they should try to conserve the remaining supply of cars as long as possible for essential purposes.

With the nationwide quota of new cars fixed at 20,600 for the month, the Columbus district, which is comprised of many central Ohio counties, is granted only 219 new automobiles.

Persons who can show need for a bicycle in getting to work, or in connection with his work may obtain a certificate by applying at the rationing board. Issuance of the certificate does not guarantee that a bicycle is available. This certificate only gives the holder the right to buy if he can find a bicycle.

Hamburger Points

The ration point value of hamburger, listed on the current table of consumer point values at seven points per pound, will be increased to eight points per pound effective immediately.

At the same time, OPA broadened its definition of hamburger to permit additional meatier cuts of the lower grades of beef to be sold as hamburger.

This means that such cuts as rib, loin and chuck may be ground and sold as hamburger when obtained from Grade D beef.

Up to the present, retailers have been permitted to sell as hamburger certain cheaper cuts obtained from all grades of beef, such as necks, flanks, shanks, skirts, heel of round, briskets, plates, miscellaneous beef trimmings and beef fat.

"Obsolete" Shoes

Effective November 8, shoe merchants are authorized to conduct "obsolete" shoe sales after they have obtained permission from the OPA district office for such sale. One dollar a pair and fifty cents for single shoes is the maximum that can be charged for these shoes, sold ration free.

It was pointed out that these "obsolete" shoes are those types that have deteriorated, including out-of-style, discolored merchandise that has been lying idle on dealers' shelves. If single shoes are to be sold, statement must be made that they cannot be mated.

Dealers must submit a list of the obsolete shoes they have for sale with their application to the OPA district office. If a dealer sells these shoes at higher prices than $1 a pair, he must collect ration currency.

GIANT SHARK GIVES UP HUMAN VICTIM

A MIAMI POLICEMAN inspects the remains of a human body after it was taken from the stomach of a fourteen-foot man-eating shark (right) caught off the Florida coast in the area where 88 merchant seamen lost their lives last week when two tankers collided and exploded. The identity of the victim may possibly be established through fingerprints taken from the hand.

was within 18 miles of the Black Sea port of Kherson, and had battered its way into the delta of the Dnieper to a point within 20 miles of the river's mouth. The Soviet's fan-shaped drive in this sector overran 80 villages which had been occupied by the enemy.

There was tremendous news, too, from the southwest Pacific, where a super-strong Allied aerial punch at Rabaul decisively smashed Japanese attempts to organize a large-scale counterblow to the expanding American drive in the Solomons.

Jap Ships Sunk

General Douglas MacArthur announced that 26 Japanese warcraft were sunk or damaged, and 108 Jap planes destroyed or probably destroyed.

Three destroyers, eight large merchant ships and four small coastwise vessels were sunk. Two Jap heavy cruisers were struck by direct hits, and one was seen listing badly with a huge hole in its hull. Seven large merchant ships and two tankers also were targeted. The vessels sunk totaled 50,000 tons, MacArthur's communique said. The damaged ships aggregated 30,000 tons.

Twin-motored, speedy and powerful Mitchell medium bombers, escorted by double-fuselage Lightning fighters, carried out the attacks which were considered the greatest single assault the Allies have yet launched against the Pacific enemy.

Similarly, the Japanese opposition met by our fliers was the heaviest ever encountered at the New Britain island base. Intense anti-aircraft met our planes, and enemy fighters made a futile effort to intercept the devastating attack.

Wreck Havoc

In his communique Gen. MacArthur gave some idea of the havoc wrought by our airmen:

"The entire shipping area was a scene of utter wreckage and destruction," the official communique said.

Lee Van Atta, International News Service correspondent who flew in one of the attacking Mitchells, described the scene graphically.

"The general impression is that Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, could never have looked like Simpson anchorage today," Van Atta wrote. "Everywhere ships lay mortally wounded as the American raiders soared from their objectives. Everywhere there were pyramids of flame and searing hunks of steel."

Van Atta said his plane was holed "like a sieve" by anti-aircraft fire, and a paper-backed book which he took along on the raid "was riddled with bullets."

The Allies lost 9 bombers and 10 fighters, our heaviest loss so far in a single raid in the Pacific. But this loss was considered small in comparison with the importance of the success achieved.

GERMAN MORALE HIT HARD BY MOSCOW ACCORD

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Allied accord at the Moscow conference has been a serious blow to German morale, Paul Henry Spaak, foreign minister of the exiled Belgian government maintained today.

Terming the international conclave as creating a new hope for conquered nations, the Belgian declared:

"After their military defeats on various fronts, the Nazis have suffered their first political debacle. The agreements reached have given new hope to the subjugated nations. The demand to bring the guilty Nazis to trial in the countries where their crimes were committed was absolutely necessary and it has made an excellent impression."

Arrived in this country just a few days ago, Spaak is here to attend the relief and rehabilitation conference in Atlantic City.

MALONE WINS $10,000 IN ESHELMAN CO. SUIT

Carl Malone of Circleville was awarded a verdict for $10,000 Wednesday by a U. S. court jury in his suit for $50,500 against the John W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co., Circleville. Malone had sued for loss of a foot in machinery at the mill. The company charged he was trespassing.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS BENEFIT FROM SALVAGE DRIVE

Circleville public schools will benefit from the scrap paper, rubber, rags and metal salvage drive conducted two weeks ago to the extent of $134.86. Tom Armstrong, who directed the salvage campaign, said the amount will be divided equally among all schools, each being permitted to spend the money for anything it wishes.

The salvaged materials were sold to dealers in the city.

Included in the collection, Armstrong reported, were 17,900 pounds of paper—needed badly by the Container Corporation—3,150 pounds of magazines, 500 pounds of rags, 1,700 pounds of sheet iron, 200 pounds of rubber, 150 pounds of tin and four pounds of aluminum.

No report has been received yet from county schools where the salvage campaign was conducted last week during three afternoons when teachers were registering folk of their community for War Ration Book No. 4. Much success was reported in some areas, although the number of pounds of varied types of salvage material collected has not yet been figured.

be made from unexpended balances instead.

Constituting the largest single reduction in the budget estimates, this alternative was decided on by the committee after consultation with Secretary of Navy Frank Knox who approved. In its report, the committee said the transfer was made possible by a survey of navy needs which showed a reduction in procurement and ordnance requirements.

Indicating that like treatment may await the War department, the report added that a similar survey is now being made of army needs.

The fact that 60 billions of appropriated war funds have not yet been obligated or spent was recently examined by the house ways and means committee when confronted by the administration's proposed ten billion 500 million dollar tax program.

Agencies in addition to the navy which suffered budget reductions through the committee's action today included the War Manpower Commission ($5,700,000 cut), Federal Security agency ($3,700,000), Office of Education ($3,900,000), Public Health service ($3,500,000), National Housing agency ($150,000,000), agriculture department ($14,000,000), and department of interior ($3,300,000).

SIMEON WILLIS HOLDS LEAD IN KENTUCKY RACE

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 4—Simeon S. Willis, Republican candidate for governor, took a lead of more than 5,000 votes today over his Democratic rival, J. Lyter Donaldson, and was the apparent victor in one of the closest races for the office in years.

Democratic leaders conceded the election of Willis with the reservation that it might take the official count to make the result certain.

In 3,971 of the state's 4,277 precincts, the vote was: Willis, 257,545; Donaldson, 252,270, a margin of 5,275 in the Republican's favor.

Barring an upset in the missing precincts, Willis will be the third GOP governor of Kentucky in the last 24 years.

In a move designed to insure the election of Donaldson, Kentucky's two U. S. Senators, majority leader Alben W. Barkley and A. B. (Happy) Chandler came to the state to make last-minute campaign speeches for the Democratic candidate.

Barkley declared that if Donaldson were defeated, it would be interpreted not only in the United States but throughout the world as a repudiation of President Roosevelt's program "in its entirety."

scale production unlikely before Monday.

The bushy-browed UMW president, whose followers struck three times last Summer and forced government seizure of the mines once before, immediately dispatched this message to the coal fields:

"Your international officers and members of your scale and policy committees of all districts urge immediate compliance with this contract, and the fullest degree of cooperation to make it effective."

"Let every member recognize that the nation's imperative need for coal requires the most prompt action in restoring the mines to full production."

Jokes declared that the mining of coal for war "must be resumed immediately," asserting that the agreement would yield an estimated 20,000,000 tons of bituminous coal annually and 2,000,000 of anthracite.

Objections of the WLB to the original wage proposal submitted by the UMW and Illinois Coal Operators—generally regarded as a "model" for the entire soft coal industry—were overcome by cutting the miners' 50-minute lunch period to 15 minutes, providing that much more productive work.

The bituminous miners will receive $8.50 for an eight and one-half hour day, including travel time, which is estimated in Illinois at 45 minutes. By adding the 15 minutes of the lunch period, they actually will be digging coal eight hours daily.

Under the old contract which expired March 31 they were paid $7 for a seven-hour day at the "face" of the mine, travel time not being considered at all. They would have received by its terms $8.50 for eight hours work—since the eighth hour is paid for at time and one-half.

Thus, the mine workers receive in the new contract the same basic daily payment as under the old one. But on a weekly basis, they will get paid for the travel time under the wage-hour law which provides for such compensation after 40 hours weekly.

The WLB rejected the original Illinois contract which called for $8.50 for the eight and one-half hour day, including travel time. The board said the men actually would only dig coal seven hours and forty-five minutes, making 37 and one-half cents of the total an unjustified wage increase.

The coast guardsman's present address is: Ralph E. Wallace, AS, 7013-169, USCG regiment, quartermaster corps, Detail K-9, Fort Robinson, Nebraska.

Two other sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wallace are also in service. They are Lieutenant Paul W. Wallace, whose address is: 85th RCN, headquarters company, APO 255, Pine Camp, N. Y., and Private Earl W. Wallace, ASN 514763, platoon 782, recruit depot, Marine barracks, Parris Island, S. C. The latter went into service only a few weeks ago.

NELSON BAKER EQUIPMENT SALE BRINGS $15,000

One of the biggest farm equipment sales to be conducted in Pickaway county in recent years was held Wednesday at the farm of Nelson Baker, Jackson township. A large crowd was present during the entire day. The total amount of money received during the sale was not disclosed, but it was estimated to be in the vicinity of $15,000.

Much equipment on which OPA has fixed ceiling prices was disposed of, all interested bidders putting their names in a hat and the person whose name was drawn being permitted to make the purchase.

Mr. Baker plans to remove about the first of the year to his newly purchased home in North Court street, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Culp.

Auctioneers handling the sale included W. O. Bumgarner, Orren Updyke and V. M. Diltz.

ALLIED BOMBS WRECK 2,000,000 GERMAN HOMES

LONDON, Nov. 4—Robert Ley, Nazi Labor Front leader, authorized the publication of a statement that 2,000,000 of 92,000,000 apartments in Germany had been completely destroyed by Allied air raids, an exchange telegraph from Zurich said today.

The statement revealed that 22,000 corpses were dug out of the ruins of Hamburg alone. Far greater casualties must be expected since rescue workers have found it impossible to open up many shelters buried in debris, it was said.

A Stockholm dispatch to Reuters quoted an item in the Social Demokraten reporting that more than 1,000 persons were killed in the American raid Tuesday on Wiener Neustadt, Austria.

expects defeat of Germany in 1944 and of Japan a year later. It reports that he feels the agreements reached at the Moscow conference insure a working formula for restoring peace in Europe after German surrenders and provide a method for maintaining peace in the future.

Some conservative Democratic foes and some Republican critics believe the rumor will prove true but for different reasons than those cited by the President's friends. The critics say that "Kentucky was to Roosevelt what Moscow was to Hitler—a certain sign of impending defeat."

One of the President's greatest Democratic admirers had this to say about the rumor: "Mr. Roosevelt will never jeopardize his great prestige by entering a fourth term campaign that can end only in certain defeat. His friends have known this for some time. The President will prefer to retire from the White House undefeated so that his voice will remain unimpaired when raised in the cause of the common man or in promoting world peace."

On the Republican side, immediate reaction on Capitol Hill to the Republican landslide in New York state was that Gov. Dewey could have the GOP nomination in 1944 without asking. The governor rather startled his followers in Washington by his blunt declaration that, "I am not and shall not become a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944."

Some Republicans believe that Dewey will be drafted anyway. Others believe that if he persists in his "unavailability," he will talk himself out of the campaign. Predominant sentiment among Capitol Republicans is strong against Wendell Willkie, their 1940 standard-bearer, hence the search for another candidate for the 1944 race.

KNECE VICTIM TO HELP NAME HEARING DATE

Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt is awaiting word from Charles Aills, of Harrison, O., a pipeline and prosecuting witness in armed robbery charges against Kenneth Knece, 30, of Jackson township, before he asks Judge Meeker Terwilliger to fix the date for Knece's trial.

The prosecutor wrote to Aills last Monday, but has not yet heard from him concerning his availability as principal witness against the convict, who was caught last Saturday after seven hour of liberty which followed a jail break.

Mail to Aills goes to his home town, but it is likely, the prosecutor believes, that it must be forwarded to him wherever he is working on the pipeline. He was a member of the C. S. Foreman Co. crew which installed river and creek crossings in the Pickaway county area several months ago.

It was hoped the trial could start next Monday, but the prosecutor said it will probably be impossible to be ready on that date since summoning of jurors will take some time.

"See-ability" will safeguard their twinkle

PROTECT that bright, twinkling gleam with better "See-ability"—1. Use enough light to see easily; 2. Avoid glare; and 3. Avoid harmful shadows. Following examples will be helpful.

MOVE THE LAMP close to where children play or study. This increases "See-ability," helps their eyes see more sharply with less effort. Furthermore, it saves light.

PLACING LAMPS in correct position on desk or table avoids unnecessary eyestrain. For right-handed people this would be at left, thus keeping writing surface free of irritating shadows.

War-time Lighting Suggestions

- Clean lamp bowls and lamp bulbs frequently to get from 25% to 30% more light from lamps you have.
- Use white shades or shades with white linings, re-paint 'em if necessary. Dark shades waste light.
- Avoid direct glare from lamp bulbs or bowl by using shades that are deep enough and big enough.
- Place each lamp so it puts no glare on the eyes of either person using it.
- Arrange lamps and furniture so each lamp can serve two or more people, if possible.
- Tilt work or reading to the angle that gets rid of reflected glare, try it; you can see the difference.
- Sit close enough to the lamp to get all the help it can give the eyes. A difference of a few inches means 50% less light.
- Have eyes examined by a competent eye-sight specialist. Good light helps make seeing easier; does not correct eye defects.
- Turn off lamp you are not using. This is one way you can help in the nation's program to conserve materials.

NELSON BAKER EQUIPMENT SALE BRINGS $15,000

One of the biggest farm equipment sales to be conducted in Pickaway county in recent years was held Wednesday at the farm of Nelson Baker, Jackson township. A large crowd was present during the entire day. The total amount of money received during the sale was not disclosed, but it was estimated to be in the vicinity of $15,000.

Much equipment on which OPA has fixed ceiling prices was disposed of, all interested bidders putting their names in a hat and the person whose name was drawn being permitted to make the purchase.

Mr. Baker plans to remove about the first of the year to his newly purchased home in North Court street, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Culp.

Auctioneers handling the sale included W. O. Bumgarner, Orren Udyke and V. M. Diltz.

ALLIED BOMBS WRECK 2,000,000 GERMAN HOMES

LONDON, Nov. 4—Robert Ley, Nazi Labor Front leader, authorized the publication of a statement that 2,000,000 of 92,000,000 apartments in Germany had been completely destroyed by Allied air raids, an exchange telegraph from Zurich said today.

The statement revealed that 22,000 corpses were dug out of the ruins of Hamburg alone. Far greater casualties must be expected since rescue workers have found it impossible to open up many shelters buried in debris, it was said.

A Stockholm dispatch to Reuter's quoted an item in the Social Demokraten reporting that more than 1,000 persons were killed in the American raid Tuesday on Wiener Neustadt, Austria.

expects defeat of Germany in 1944 and of Japan a year later. It reports that he feels the agreements reached at the Moscow conference insure a working formula for restoring peace in Europe after Germany surrenders and provide a method for maintaining peace in the future.

Some conservative Democratic foes and some Republican critics believe the rumor will prove true but for different reasons than those cited by the President's friends. The critics say that "Kentucky was to Roosevelt what Moscow was to Hitler—a certain sign of impending defeat."

One of the President's greatest Democratic admirers had this to say about the rumor: "Mr. Roosevelt will never jeopardize his great prestige by entering a fourth term campaign that can end only in certain defeat. His friends have known this for some time. The President will prefer to retire from the White House undefeated so that his voice will remain unimpaired when raised in the cause of the common man or in promoting world peace."

On the Republican side, immediate reaction on Capitol Hill to the Republican landslide in New York state was that Gov. Dewey could have the GOP nomination in 1944 without asking. The governor rather startled his followers in Washington by his blunt declaration that, "I am not and shall not become a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944."

Some Republicans believe that Dewey will be drafted anyway. Others believe that if he persists in his "unavailability," he will talk himself out of the campaign. Predominant sentiment among Capitol Republicans is strong against Wendell Willkie, their 1940 standard-bearer, hence the search for another candidate for the 1944 race.

TWO MORE FILE APPEALS ON SERVICE RATINGS

Number of appeals filed this week with the Pickaway county selective service board jumped to seven Thursday when I-A classifications of Robert Pickens of Circleville and Robert E. Currier of Columbus were contested by their employers.

Pickens is working at Patterson field, Fairfield, his I-A rating being appealed by the War Review Board at the field, while the appeal for Currier, a former resident here, was filed by the Pennsylvania railroad for whom he is employed.

DRAKE CLAIM SETTLED

Settlement of the claim of Ted Drake of Circleville against the Ohio Industrial Commission for injuries suffered several years ago when he was working for the highway department was disclosed Thursday when a dismissal entry was filed in common pleas court. The case had been carried to the Ohio supreme court when the commission, which had obtained a reversal of the common pleas court decision in the court of appeals, agreed to a settlement.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FAS-TEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FAS-TEETH at any drug store.

"See-ability" will safeguard their twinkle

PROTECT that bright, twinkling gleam with better "See-ability"—1. Use enough light to see easily; 2. Avoid glare; and 3. Avoid harmful shadows. Following examples will be helpful.

MOVE THE LAMP close to where children play or study. This increases "See-ability", helps their eyes see more sharply with less effort. Furthermore, it saves light.

PLACING LAMPS in correct position on desk or table avoids unnecessary eyestrain. For right-handed people this would be at left, thus keeping writing surface free of irritating shadows.

War-time Lighting Suggestions

- Clean lamp bowls and lamp bulbs frequently to get from 25% to 30% more light from lamps you have.
- Use white shades or shades with white linings, re-paint 'em if necessary. Dark shades waste light.
- Avoid direct glare from lamp bulbs or bowl by using shades that are deep enough and big enough.
- Place each lamp so it puts no glare on the eyes of either person using it.
- Arrange lamps and furniture so each lamp can serve two or more people, if possible.
- Tilt work or reading to the angle that gets rid of reflected glare, try it; you can see the difference.
- Sit close enough to the lamp to get all the help it can give the eyes. A difference of a few inches means 50% less light.
- Have eyes examined by a competent eye-sight specialist. Good light helps make seeing easier; does not correct eye defects.
- Turn off lamp you are not using. This is one way you can help in the nation's program to conserve materials.

Rykovich Still At Home; Failure Of Kulbitski To Return Is Mystery

WOLVES JUGGLE WIESE

Three Of Bo McMillin's Boys Out Of Shape After Ohio Tilt

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 4—The continued absence from practice of two key backfield men forced Coach Frank Leahy today to make some shifts in the Notre Dame backfield in preparation for Saturday's game with unbeaten Army.

The two aces are Julius Rykovich, No. 1 right halfback, and Vic Kulbitski, No. 2 fullback. Rykovich still was at his Gary, Ind., home, suffering from a stomach ailment. Mystery surrounded Kulbitski's absence. He was given leave to go to his St. Paul, Minn., home, but failed to return. Both men were expected to return to practice yesterday.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Michigan's offense was strengthened today with the return of Bob Wiese to his more familiar position at fullback. Quarterback Jack Wink and Tackle Bob Hanzlik were named co-captains of the Wolverines.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Coach Bo McMillin of Indiana was attempting today to nurse his bruised regulars back to health for Saturday's clash with Michigan. The injured are Guard Bob Ravensburg, Guard J. C. Coffey and Halfback John Cannady.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Illinois today lost the services of Guard Pete Kearney for Saturday's Iowa game. Kearney, injured in the Michigan game, has not recovered sufficiently warrant sending him into action.

MINNEAPOLIS. — Minnesota's loss of its star quarterback, Bill Garnaas, to the Navy was partly offset today by the excellent showing of his freshman replacement, Bill Peterson. As the Gophers rounded into shape for the invasion by unbeaten Purdue, Peterson promised to become into one of the best kickers ever developed at Minnesota.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — The return of the injured halfback, Stan Dubicki, offered some solace to the Purdue Boilermakers today in preparation for the Minnesota battle. Coach Elmer Burnham still felt the loss of his star, Tony Butkovich, but hoped that Dubicki would develop to top form and carry some of the burden of the Boilermaker attack.

EVANSTON, Ill. — Still suffering from the loss of Herman Frickey and Don Buffmire, Northwestern today placed increasing reliance on the passing of Otto Graham to turn back the Wisconsin invasion Saturday.

$20 ASKED FOR TICKET TO SEE IRISH AND ARMY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Quick pickups on Notre Dame and Army tickets to the game Saturday reportedly are selling for $20 each on a face value of $4.40 and the speculators anticipate as much of a harvest as the one they enjoyed on the World Series . . . The N. D.-Cadet tussle has been sold out for weeks, but people still call up sports editor acquaintances and indulge in conversation that runs about as follows:

"Say, pal, I want you to do me a little favor, pal, if you can."

"Sure—anything within reason," says the sports editor.

"Well, you see I clean forgot to get any tickets for the Notre Dame-Army game and now my wife and kids are squalling their heads off and I've gotta buy four or six—make it four; I'll settle for four. Help me out."

"Help you out, eh?" the sports editor shrieks. "I wish you were within reach, I'd help you out—right out the window. Don't ever speak to me again, ya bum, ya."

Thus ends another beautiful friendship.

One guy is determined not to be shut out next season . . . He has missed getting tickets the last two years in a row, so has sent his check for the 1944 game to Col. Biff Jones, the graduate manager at West Point . . . meantime, the Cadets are working secretly at West Point and preparing two separate and distinct backfields to hurl into the fray.

HUTSON RATES AS GREATEST

Sports Authorities Say Green Bay End Best In Generation

By Davis J. Walsh

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 — When the name of Don Hutson came up, there was a moment of instant and unanimous agreement within the tight, little group yesterday . . . a fitting commentary on the man's consummate artistry, since about the only thing football people ever agree on is that the game isn't played with mosquito netting.

Hutson, they said, was in many ways "the most remarkable athlete of our generation," which most certainly takes in a lot of floor space.

It takes in, as a matter of fact, Dempsey, Cobb, Ruth, Tilden, Jones, Joe Louis and Red Grange, among others. But Elmer Layden, the demoted horseman who's now running the pro league; Ralph Brizzolara, who's now general-managing the Chicago Bears for George Halas, and a couple of league officials didn't seem to shy away from that sweeping implication.

They told, instead, of the things Hutson does, and just how he's able to do them. And their oratory was pretty much without self-interest, and wholly without bigotry.

For, in the first place, though Hutson is coming in here Sunday with the Green Bay Packers, for the annual brannigan against the Bears (one of those old fashioned get-togethers in which the trouble is to get them apart afterward), nobody will have to be talked into the park. They'll probably have to call the cops to keep some of them out.

As for the second place, Layden's personal interest in Hutson, as president of the league, is or should be perfunctory; and Brizzolara should, if anything, be hostile because he's a stockholder in the rival club.

But, listening to their dispassionate appraisal yesterday, you learned some things about Hutson you hadn't known before.

The Bears, for instance, will put two men "on" him, even while he's harmlessly going downfield under a punt. They'll use three on every other play, and that won't suffice, because the guy will change pace and direction so often and so fast that, when he does go for a pass from canadeo or comp, he'll catch it alone and on the dead run.

Another thing, the defense has no way of knowing where Hutson's going . . . because Hutson doesn't know himself. In fact, the whole play doesn't develop until the ball is actually in the air, at which point Hutson takes a gambler at the thing and then goes for it.

STARTING BUCK LINEUP MAY BE GIVEN JUGGLING

COLUMBUS, Nov. 4 — The Bucks today faced complications due to injuries and possible shifts are in the offing before the team meets the Pitt Panthers Saturday.

George Neff, freshman guard, has an injured shoulder and may be replaced by Wid Miller. Bill Hackett, another regular guard, has also been placed in the improbable list. Lee Cunningham may replace him.

Al (Red) Williams may replace the injured Matt Brown, Canton Negro, as quarterback.

Kraft, Coach Lou Little, still laid up with sinus trouble, again may not be able to accompany his men when they go to Hanover.

Toledo Waite Declares Massillon Avoiding It; Logan, Athens Watched

By Sam Fogg
International News Service Sports Writer

The big Red from Steubenville and Mansfield's Tygers have the doubtful distinction of serving as "yardsticks" this week end for a pair of powerful high school opponents who are coveting the mythical state football crown shared by Massillon and Canton McKinley for more than a decade.

Martins Ferry, unscored on in clipping off seven victories thus far, will engage the Steubenville eleven in an effort to better the drubbings administered the big Red earlier this year by the two Stark county schools. Toledo Waite will test a claim for state recognition against the Tygers already beaten by Massillon, 33-0.

Both Waite and Martins Ferry are priming to run up scores if possible as this week's contests provide the only basis of comparison with Massillon and McKinley. The Waite Indians have triumphed in seven contests but the victories have been against Toledo city opposition only.

Jack Mollenkopf, Waite coach, advanced his claim for the state title this week when he asserted Massillon had purposely avoided scheduling his veteran team.

"We begged Massillon for a game this year," he told a Mansfield coach, "but they wouldn't have a thing to do with us."

Martins Ferry's Purple Raiders will have opportunity to keep Steubenville scoreless, a feat neither Stark county school accomplished. Massillon whipped the Stubbers, 33-6, and McKinley won last week, 26-7.

Two unbeaten, untied eleven, Athens and Logan, will collide to determine the Southeastern League championship. Both have bowled over six foes in a row.

Lorain's unbeaten string against seven teams will be endangered by Canton Lincoln, led by Mike Regina, while Newark will exercise its scoring power against Dover's Crimson eleven.

REIBEL ANKLE HURT?; TIGERS WORKING HARD

Reports from Grove City that big Jim Reibel, 200 pound fullback, has a sprained ankle and may not play Friday night against the Tygers failed to slow down the drills of the Red and Black stalwarts in preparation for the invasion of the Grove City gridiron.

Reibel is a powerhouse in the Greyhound backfield, and he is expected to cause plenty of trouble. If he is hurt, that is something else. However, local gridders and their coach who saw him play against Groveport last week saw no indication of an injury.

The Tygers are expecting a tough game. The Red and Black, with exception of Bob Grubb and Dave Mader who are suffering fractured collarbone and arm, respectively, is in good physical condition for the contest.

SCORING RACE WIDE OPEN WITH BIG ACES GONE

CHICAGO, Nov. 4—With touchdown Tony Butkovich gone from Purdue and Bill Daley departed from Michigan for more serious service with the Navy the Big Ten football conference scoring race developed today into a free-for-all.

No performer stood a chance of catching the speedy Boilermaker back while he was toting the leather for the conference co-leaders. He had barged over the goal line for 13 touchdowns in four games for a total of 78 points.

Daley was running well back of the Purdue ace with six touchdowns. It was largely due to his ground gaining that the Wolverines charged to the top of the conference in offensive power, averaging 356 yards per game in three starts.

The Wolves even displaced Purdue in that department by running up 42 points on Illinois last Saturday. The Boilermakers have averaged 350 yards in four championship contests.

Now, the field is left to Elroy Hirsch, another Michigan backfielder with four touchdowns and boys like Hoernschemeyer of Indiana; Pihos, Indiana and Dimancheff of Purdue. Each has crashed the last chalk mark for three touchdowns.

One of the unsung stalwarts of the conference is Mervin Pregulman, brilliant Michigan tackle, who also departed for advanced naval training. His accurate toe accounted for 12 points after touchdown in three conference games, never missing an attempt.

The conference records released today show that Hoernschemeyer, the Hoosiers' freshman, is the ranking passer with 67 attempts and 31 completions for 433 yards. Paul Davis, 17-year-old Ohio State fullback, tops him in percentage of completions, but has tossed only 12 passes. He hit on six for a .500 average.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better. Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in the blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THE WORLD DOES MOVE
SENATOR Hiram Johnson of California, who won fame as a liberal early in this century and then turned conservative, still holds out against international cooperation. And there are a few others with him who still think in terms of the famous question uttered by another senator in the League of Nations debate a generation ago: "What have we to do with abroad?" But "times change and we change with them." The house is almost unanimous for collaboration, and the senate is not far behind. The latter merely has to argue for two or three weeks to live up to its oratorical principles and give every senator a chance to argue and explain.
"Resolved," says the senate resolution, "that the war against all our enemies be waged until complete victory is achieved; that the United States cooperate with its comrades-in-arms in securing a just and honorable peace; that the United States, acting through its constitutional processes, join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority, with power to prevent aggression and to preserve the peace of the world."
The house said the same thing in fewer words. The senate has to be oratorical. But the point is plain. Americans need no longer hang their heads. The United States is now, with the British commonwealth of Nations, at the head of a brave and timely movement for a free, cooperative world.

GOOD SPORTS
AMERICANS in general pride themselves on their sportsmanship, but it is sad to see, nowadays, how often such honorable pride "goeth before a fall." This is especially true in the case of rationed goods, and women, being the usual household purchasing agents, have become the chief offenders. Many of them scramble indecently to get more than their share.
It can be safely assumed that the men on the battle front are not engaging in such scrambles. Out there, where food is often literally a matter of life or death, they share alike.
Fortunately the women themselves are beginning to remedy the home situation. In Ohio, for example, housewives representing more than 2,000,000 consumers have signed a home-front pledge not to pay more than the top prices established by law, and to surrender coupons for all rationed commodities. Rapid progress in such pledging is observed also in many other states.
This is a matter in which sportsmanship pays in more ways than a clear conscience. A New Orleans survey reports that compliance with the OPA regulations has already cut food cost two percent and the over-all costs of living five percent.

Inside WASHINGTON
U. S.-British Unity Needs
Shel of Hypo, Writer Says
Believes Duke of Windsor
Might Aid Closer Relation
By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON—This town is simmering down these days. Not that there isn't something cooking in every front office in town. But the kettles aren't boiling over as they did in the first frenzy of this second war to save democracy.
Fighting the enemy has lost its thrill. Stopping the Axis has become what it always was—a mean, long, hard job. We continue to zip about in the theatrical Washington way. But we realize now that the uniforms, and the titles are simply another way of being dressed to kill—or be killed.
I don't mean to say that behind the routine of winning the war there isn't a powerful lot of going on. There is. Probably more than in the sputtering period.
For example, although the recent capital visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor was accompanied by little fanfare, yet many people are saying, since they left, "Why not use the duke and his American wife as Anglo-American propaganda?"
Everybody who reads beyond the comic sheets knows that the relationship between the United States and Great Britain have struck their lowest level since the war began. Something must be done, say the smart ones, to help Britain and Americans like each other better. How can we make these two English speaking allies understand each other?
In their own personalities, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are the answer to these disturbing questions. The empire found the duke a good travelling salesman when he was the young Prince of Wales. The British government sent him everywhere a boat or a railroad train reached, with orders to "Sell Britain." He did sell Britain, cleverly and profitably.
Britain needs to be sold again—to the United States, this time. Mr. Churchill should dispatch the former king and his American wife on a personal good will tour.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
BY DREW PEARSON
WPB INERTIA RESPONSIBLE
WASHINGTON—One contributing factor in the increasing paper shortage has been lack of "boy-power" to collect scrap paper, plus lack of a War Production Board sparkplug to get a paper collection campaign humming.
What happened was that shortly after Pearl Harbor, housewives and youngsters collected scrap paper with such zeal that scrap dealers were not able to take care of it, reduced the price, sent word out that no more paper was needed. American patriotism was too much for the unorganized scrap industry and government.
At that time scrap paper was not so urgently needed. But now the situation daily grows more acute. Most scrap paper is made into cardboard or heavy pasteboard packing boxes, much of it used to send war goods abroad. When enough scrap paper is not available for V-boxes, then they are made of raw wood pulp, thus taking newsprint away from the daily newspapers.
Belatedly, therefore, the War Production Board has begun to stir itself regarding paper salvage. Its inertia has been as bad as its initial failure regarding scrap iron.
But that does not make the paper less needed. Actually Uncle Sam needs 8,000,000 tons of scrap paper. There is a saying that nothing is as dead as yesterday's newspaper. But now any old newspaper is alive for scrap purposes. All sorts of paper is needed—cigarette packages, candy boxes, paper cups, newspapers—everything.
Scrap paper actually is in such demand that one biscuit company had to shut down because it was unable to get paper boxes. It is so short that a black market has sprung up. Imagine a year ago, bootlegging waste paper!

SENATORIAL COURTESY
One of the oldest subterfuges practiced in the name of "senatorial dignity" is the deletion of acrimonious debate from the Congressional Record. However, Florida's forthright young Claude Pepper is one senator who believes in keeping the record straight, regardless of whom it hits.
Pepper recently had a fiery exchange with Texas' Chairman Tom Connally of the foreign relations committee over changes in the post-war peace resolution, during which the Texan roared that he had been "insulted." Later Connally went to Pepper, suggested the flareup be stricken from the Record.
"I'll have to look it over to see if there's anything wrong in it," said the able Floridian who is one-eighth Indian. He made it clear he didn't want to tamper with the record and expressed doubts as to what parts of the debate should be deleted. But Connally was persistent.
"Let's take it all out," urged the Texan. Pepper, however, refused to consent to any changes at all. Next day his row with Connally appeared unexpurgated. There was only one grammatical correction, made by Congressional Record reporters. At one point Connally, in high temper, forgot himself and exclaimed, "... it ain't so." (Continued on Page Eight)

Looking Back in Pickaway County
FIVE YEARS AGO
Councilman Ben Gordon, chairman of the finance committee, reported the city finances were "in the worst shape they had been for the last five or six years."
I found my own suspicious self thinking better of our lend-lease aid to Britain—after I had listened to the duke discuss the place of England and the United States in the post-war world. It's too bad the duke hasn't a better spot than Nassau in which to show his loyalty to his own country and his appreciation of America.
Besides, the hour has about struck for royalty of the old order. The Windsors are the new order. I repeat, why not use them?
Another international subject being talked about in the capital is the sudden effort of the small nations to make themselves heard.
Naturally, the limelight is on Russia, the United States, England and China. The small nations do continue, meanwhile, to do the best they can to win the war. Lately they've begun to demand attention from their big allies.
I do not think however that all their "How-About-Me" efforts are wise. Last week Norwegian Minister of Supply and Reconstruction Frihagen announced quite clearly that it is the duty of the United States and Britain (meaning, naturally, the duty of the American pocketbook) to reimburse Norway and the other occupied countries for the damage done by the German invaders.
Very stupid diplomacy, this. It was not the fault of the United States or Britain that Norway or Denmark or France let the enemy in. Minister Frihagen must have been badly advised when he made that statement. Somebody should have told him that the American taxpayer, already faced with the struggle of providing the money with which to support a national debt of $300,000,000,000, is beginning to look sharply at lend-lease. That childish talk of "Oh, let's give them another $10,000,000" is no longer heard in official or private conversation. If the small nations are to survive they must prove their industry and courage, and stop shouting "Gimme!" "Gimme!"
I doubt also if the brave people of the occupied countries want to be treated as paupers. There are billions of dollars worth of frozen foreign money in the United States waiting to be thawed out for rehabilitation and relief. The people who have endured the invasion of the enemy undoubtedly want that money to be used for rehabilitation. I can't believe they wish to seem beggars before the world.
If I were a citizen of an occupied country fighting for my daily existence, I should do away with my government in exile—come the happy day of peace. I'd fix up my part of the post-war world for the comfort not of the run-aways, but of the stay-behinds who met disaster heroically on its own ground.

DIET AND HEALTH
Usual Ulcer Heals Well
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
FIRST I want to protest against the practice of referring to "ulcers" of the stomach. There is, for all practical purposes, one and it is an ulcer of the stomach. No doctor ever says "ulcers" of the stomach. The fact that it is a single round hole in the lining of the stomach, and a bad tooth combined, who learns to treat himself. He takes a tablet of bicarbonate of soda every hour, or a tablet of aluminum hydroxide every hour until he forgets about it and then takes one every two, and then every three, and before you know it he is cured. (Or milk of magnesia is fared by some.) You can always tell these fellows by the fact that they have a little white seam in the corners of their mouth.
Case for Hospitalization
Then there is the fellow who is a little worse. Maybe he had a worse love affair. Anyway the hole for him is in the hospital. He needs his stomach washed out just before he goes to bed, or he needs a continuous drip of aluminum hydroxide by stomach tube. He may have bled some and needs a transfusion. His case takes a little longer, but in nine cases out of ten he gets well too.
The fellow in the third group needs surgery. His ulcer shows no tendency to heal, he bleeds from it, it stops up his stomach opening and he vomits and is always uncomfortable. His chances with a good surgeon, though, are very good.
But the idea you can treat them all the same way belongs to the fellows who are just learning their ABCs in medicine.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. B. D.—You stated that smallpox virus clung to rooms and persons for years. We have had an instance. During the War of 1812 several soldiers died of smallpox and were buried at Plattsburg, N. Y. Recently it was necessary to move these bodies. A number of those who did the work came down with smallpox and there was no place else to trace it.
Answer: They should have been vaccinated when they were children. So should the soldiers in 1812.
T. G. I.—A person who had fainting (6 or 8) during her teens, and had had no recurrence for 15 years. Is it all right for her to donate blood to the Red Cross?
Answer: Yes, if her blood count is up to normal.

SYNOPSIS
Roommates and cousins, BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tense, accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.
YESTERDAY: It's Christmas Eve and Jim is due home on his first leave.
CHAPTER SIX
BETH WAS not home when Jim went to the apartment straight from his train. But Andrea was there. She was sitting on a step-ladder, trimming the Christmas tree because Beth said it should be trimmed before Jim got there and then they would have all of Christmas eve to talk.
She didn't come down from the ladder when Jim opened the door and stood tall and handsome in his uniform just looking at her, saying nothing.
"You ought to be framed," she said. "I didn't realize before how beautiful you are."
He tossed his hat and coat on the sofa and walked over to the tree, looking up. "I've always known you were beautiful, and devilish and tempting, and I came here just to tell you that."
The fragile scarlet ball in Andrea's hand crumbled as something hot swept up through her, something she had never felt before.
"Come down," he said, holding out his arms.
She came down without taking her eyes from his and closed them only when his arms were fast about her, his lips young and hard on her own. Then she drew away.
"You knew?"
"Yes," she said. "Funny, isn't it?"
"Not to me."
"We'll not be good for each other," she said, touching his face with her fingers.
"Why not? We're the same kind, Andy, both out of our element in the kind of lives we've been leading, drawn to each other without words."
"Yes," she said. "But I think I know what that is. Something we can't help."
"There's no reason why we should. You're going to marry me." Andrea's eyes were filled with things she hid from him. "Perhaps," she said. "Have you been thinking of me?"
"Day and night."
"I've been thinking of you, too, but all I had to think of was the way you looked at me, as if there were no one else here, of the way you seemed angry when I went out with Dennis that last time."
His arms were hard and hurting around her. "What about Dennis?"
Again she hid her eyes. "That's over," she said on a quick little breath. And then, "Beth will be in soon."
Beth knew before Andrea told her. She knew when she came into the living room and found them putting the last of the silver snow on the tree. She knew from their silence, from the looks that were between them and from something repressed, yet sparkling from each of them.
But it was Andrea, not Jim, who told her. And it was after Jim had gone the day after Christmas, when the red, velvet roses that Dennis had sent were already fading in the vases, but she still was not prepared to hear it, to have the numbness that had encased her through the two and a half days while Jim was there leap into a searing pain.
She said her head ached the day after Christmas and was not able to go to the train with him, so Andrea went, and when she came home, Beth pretended to be asleep. But Andrea woke her and said, "I think you'd better know, darling. Jim and I are engaged. He asked me to marry him the night he came."
Beth prayed for words, but all she could say was, "Isn't it sudden, Andrea? I know you both so well and yet I . . ."
Andrea began to take off her things and hang them up deliberately. "Sudden? Perhaps. Those things happen that way, darling. We've been seeing each other for three years and then in a moment . . . well, everything was different. We were both excitedly aware of each other. A lower plane motion, no doubt."
"Do you love him?" Beth asked, tearing the question out of her pain.
Andrea sat down at the dressing table and, picking up a brush, began to stroke her cloudy hair. "Love?" she repeated. "I'm not sure I know about it, any more than you do. You have to love a lot, and lose your love, perhaps, to know whether you do."
"No, no," Beth's heart cried, "you know!"
"I don't know what it is, Beth, but it's a new, exciting feeling I have about Jim. I want to touch him. There's something brutal and ruthless and selfish about Jim. I'm that way, too. Perhaps that's why I'm feeling this way."
Beth could deny nothing, although she felt how wrong Andrea was. She said, "Andy, you said you loved Dennis only a month ago."
Andrea put down the brush and pushed her hair back from her face. "I think I did, but this is different. Besides, I can't have Dennis."
"Would you take Jim just because you can't have Dennis? Would that be fair or right?"
Andrea turned on the bench and flashed a look at Beth, saying, "Beth, are you so blind to Jim? Do you think he is the kind of man who is always fair?"
"Yes," Beth said quietly.
Andrea picked up the brush again. "Then you don't know him. 'How could you marry him if you feel that way?'"
"I told you," Andrea answered simply. "We are alike. We understand each other. It will be goose and gander." She put the brush down with a final gesture. "We're both discontented with what we have. The future means the same thing to us—something unknown, something to be. Oh, I don't know how to say it, but we're both going to get something out of this war, something better than what we have."
"How?"
"For one thing, I'll be married. I'll be out of Pennington and so will Jim. Maybe he'll stay in the Army. Army life is full of thrills. New places, new people."
"Oh, Jim, Jim," Beth's small voice was saying. "I wanted better than this for you!"
"But we're not married yet, ducky. We'll try being engaged for a while and then . . ."
"Does Jim know that?"
"What a man doesn't know won't hurt him, darling."
"It might hurt Jim very deeply." Andrea turned a surprised look upon Beth. "Who are you most worried about, Beth, Jim or me?"
"I'm worried about both of you, if this is the way you are beginning."
Andrea began to rub cold cream into her skin. "Don't you fret your pretty head about us. I'm going down to camp to visit Jim in a couple of weeks. I'll dig up a beau for you. You really ought to have one, Beth. You're likely to become jealous when you see the good times Jim and I'll be having, and I never want you to feel left out of things."
Beth turned her face to the wall and put a cool cloth over her eyes. "I wish you happiness," she said. "It isn't as if we were going out of your life, Beth. We'll all have a future the same as our present. We'll all be together."
Future. The word was a mockery in Beth's ears. There was no future for her. Jim was her present and her future and now there was no Jim, for she had already made up her mind that somehow she must escape the torture of seeing Jim and Andrea in love.
There was a taste of ashes in her mouth and her thoughts were suffocated and frightened. She could only think blindly, "I must get away. And then, starting to her, she thought, "I must get away from Andrea."
It was horrible to think this way. She'd brought Andrea up since they were children. Andrea was like her own little sister. But Andrea was hateful to her now, and she fought herself because she was, reminding herself that Andrea had never known that she loved Jim first—and always.

THE WORLD DOES MOVE

SENATOR Hiram Johnson of California, who won fame as a liberal early in this century and then turned conservative, still holds out against international cooperation. And there are a few others with him who still think in terms of the famous question uttered by another senator in the League of Nations debate a generation ago: "What have we to do with abroad?" But "times change and we change with them." The house is almost unanimous for collaboration, and the senate is not far behind. The latter merely has to argue for two or three weeks to live up to its oratorical principles and give every senator a chance to argue and explain.

"Resolved," says the senate resolution, "that the war against all our enemies be waged until complete victory is achieved; that the United States cooperate with its comrades-in-arms in securing a just and honorable peace; that the United States, acting through its constitutional processes, join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority, with power to prevent aggression and to preserve the peace of the world."

The house said the same thing in fewer words. The senate has to be oratorical. But the point is plain. Americans need no longer hang their heads. The United States is now, with the British commonwealth of Nations, at the head of a brave and timely movement for a free, cooperative world.

GOOD SPORTS

AMERICANS in general pride themselves on their sportsmanship, but it is sad to see, nowadays, how often such honorable pride "goeth before a fall." This is especially true in the case of rationed goods, and women, being the usual household purchasing agents, have become the chief offenders. Many of them scramble indecently to get more than their share.

It can be safely assumed that the men on the battle front are not engaging in such scrambles. Out there, where food is often literally a matter of life or death, they share alike.

Fortunately the women themselves are beginning to remedy the home situation. In Ohio, for example, housewives representing more than 2,000,000 consumers have signed a home-front pledge not to pay more than the top prices established by law, and to surrender coupons for all rationed commodities. Rapid progress in such pledging is observed also in many other states.

This is a matter in which sportsmanship pays in more ways than a clear conscience. A New Orleans survey reports that compliance with the OPA regulations has already cut food cost two percent and the over-all costs of living five percent.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WPB INERTIA RESPONSIBLE

WASHINGTON — One contributing factor in the increasing paper shortage has been lack of "boy-power" to collect scrap paper, plus lack of a War Production Board sparkplug to get a paper collection campaign humming.

What happened was that shortly after Pearl Harbor, housewives and youngsters collected scrap paper with such zeal that scrap dealers were not able to take care of it, reduced the price, sent word out that no more paper was needed. American patriotism was too much for the unorganized scrap industry and government.

At that time scrap paper was not so urgently needed. But now the situation daily grows more acute. Most scrap paper is made into cardboard or heavy pasteboard packing boxes, much of it used to send war goods abroad. When enough scrap paper is not available for V-boxes, then they are made of raw wood pulp, thus taking newspaper away from the daily newspapers.

Belatedly, therefore, the War Production Board has begun to stir itself regarding paper salvage. Its inertia has been as bad as its initial failure regarding scrap iron.

But that does not make the paper less needed. Actually Uncle Sam needs 8,000,000 tons of scrap paper. There is a saying that nothing is as dead as yesterday's newspaper. But now any old newspaper is alive for scrap purposes. All sorts of paper is needed—cigarette packages, candy boxes, paper cups, newspapers—everything.

Scrap paper actually is in such demand that one biscuit company had to shut down because it was unable to get paper boxes. It is so short that a black market has sprung up. Imagine a year ago, bootlegging waste paper!

SENATORIAL COURTESY

One of the oldest subterfuges practiced in the name of "senatorial dignity" is the deletion of acrimonious debate from the Congressional Record. However, Florida's forthright young Claude Pepper is one senator who believes in keeping the record straight, regardless of whom it hits.

Pepper recently had a fiery exchange with Texas' Chairman Tom Connally of the foreign relations committee over changes in the post-war peace resolution, during which the Texan roared that he had been "insulted." Later Connally went to Pepper, suggested the flareup be stricken from the Record.

"I'll have to look it over to see if there's anything wrong in it," said the able Floridian who is one-eighth Indian. He made it clear he didn't want to tamper with the record and expressed doubts as to what parts of the debate should be deleted. But Connally was persistent.

"Let's take it all out," urged the Texan. Pepper, however, refused to consent to any changes at all. Next day his row with Connally appeared unexpurgated. There was only one grammatical correction, made by Congressional Record reporters. At one point Connally, in high temper, forgot himself and exclaimed, "... it ain't so." Re-

Usual Ulcer Heals Well

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FIRST I want to protest against the practice of referring to "ulcers" of the stomach. There is, for all practical purposes, one and it is an ulcer of the stomach. No doctor ever says "ulcers" of the stomach. The fact that it is a single word solution of continuity in the mucosa of the stomach is one of its most puzzling characteristics. It also may be the best clue to its cause. There used to be an old school book question: "Why doesn't the secretion of the stomach digest itself?" And I for one can't answer it even yet.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It does sometimes in a limited area and that is called an ulcer. We must suppose then that there is a focal point of lack of resistance—like a focus of infection—which allows the stomach to digest part of its own wall. That, to me, is the only cause of ulcer of the stomach that makes sense.

Emotional Factor

There is also an emotional factor. I wrote recently of how many soldiers in Africa were hospitalized on account of ulcer. Why this should be so, we do not know. The stomach juice is increased under the emotions of fear, hate and love, and perhaps a small part which is not too resistant under these circumstances undergoes digestion.

At any rate, it is a very common disease. I have not and could not enumerate all the theories of its causation which have been advanced.

One thing for all ulcer patients to remember is that the ulcers have a tendency to heal. They are cured. There is increased under the emotions of fear, hate and love, and perhaps a small part which is not too resistant under these circumstances undergoes digestion.

So in general, treatment comes down to some very simple divisions. There is, in the first place, the fellow who has a simple ulcer, not very deep, due to a love affair and a bad tooth combined, who learns to treat himself. He takes a tablet of bicarbonate of soda every hour, or a tablet of aluminum hydroxide every hour until he forgets about it and then takes one every two, and then every three, and before you know it he is cured. (Or milk of magnesia is favored by some.) You can always tell these fellows by the fact that they have a little white seam in the corners of their mouth.

Case for Hospitalization

Then there is the fellow who is a little worse. Maybe he had a severe love affair. Anyway the place for him is in the hospital. He needs his stomach washed out just before he goes to bed, or he needs a continuous drip of aluminum hydroxide by stomach tube. He may have bled some and needs a transfusion. His case takes a little longer, but in nine cases out of ten he gets well too.

The fellow in the third group needs surgery. His ulcer shows no tendency to heal, he bleeds from it, it stops up his stomach opening and he vomits and is always uncomfortable. His chances with a good surgeon, though, are very good.

But the idea you can treat them all the same way belongs to the fellows who are just learning their ABC's in medicine.

U. S.-British Unity Needs
Shet of Hypo, Writer Says

Believes Duke of Windsor
Might Aid Closer Relation

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—This town is simmering down these days. Not that there isn't something cooking in every front office in town. But the kettles aren't boiling over as they did in the first frenzy of this second war to save democracy.

Fighting the enemy has lost its thrill. Stopping the Axis has become what it always was—a mean, long, hard job. We continue to zip about in the theatrical Washington way. But we realize now that the uniforms and the titles are simply another way of being dressed to kill—or be killed.

I don't mean to say that behind the routine of winning the war there isn't a powerful lot of going on. There is. Probably more than in the sputtering period.

For example, although the recent capital visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor was accompanied by little fanfare, yet many people are saying, since they left, "Why not use the duke and his American wife as Anglo-American propaganda?"

Everybody who reads beyond the comic sheets knows that the relationship between the United States and Great Britain have struck their lowest level since the war began. Something must be done, say the smart ones, to help Britain and Americans like each other better. How can we make these two English speaking allies understand each other?

In their own personalities, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are the answer to these disturbing questions. The empire found the duke a good traveling salesman when he was the young Prince of Wales. The British government sent him everywhere a boat or a railroad train reached, with orders to "Sell Britain." He did sell Britain, cleverly and profitably.

Britain needs to be sold again—to the United States, this time. Mr. Churchill should dispatch the former king and his American wife on a personal good will tour.

I found my own suspicious self thinking better of our lend-lease aid to Britain—after I had listened to the duke discuss the place of England and the United States in the post-war world. It's too bad the duke hasn't a better spot than Nassau in which to show his loyalty to his own country and his appreciation of America.

Besides, the hour has about struck for royalty of the old order. The Windsors are the new order. I repeat, why not use them?

Another international subject being talked about in the capital is the sudden effort of the small nations to make themselves heard.

Naturally, the limelight is on Russia, the United States, England and China. The small nations do continue, meanwhile, to do the best they can to win the war. Lately they've begun to demand attention from their big allies.

I do not think however that all their "How-About-Me" efforts are wise. Last week Norwegian Minister of Supply and Reconstruction Frihagen announced quite clearly that it is the duty of the United States and Britain (meaning, naturally, the duty of the American pocketbook) to reimburse Norway and the other occupied countries for the damage done by the German invaders.

Very stupid diplomacy, this. It was not the fault of the United States or Britain that Norway or Denmark or France let the enemy in. Minister Frihagen must have been badly advised when he made that statement. Somebody should have told him that the American taxpayer, already faced with the struggle of providing the money with which to support a national debt of $300,000,000,000, is beginning to look sharply at lend-lease. That childish talk of "Oh, let's give them another $10,000,000" is no longer heard in official or private conversation. If the small nations are to survive they must prove their industry and courage, and stop shouting "Gimme!" "Gimme!"

I doubt also if the brave people of the occupied countries want to be treated as paupers. There are billions of dollars worth of frozen foreign money in the United States waiting to be thawed out for rehabilitation and relief. The people who have endured the invasion of the enemy undoubtedly want that money to be used for rehabilitation. I can't believe they wish to seem beggars before the world.

If I were a citizen of an occupied country fighting for my daily existence, I should do away with my government in exile—come the happy day of peace. I'd fix up my part of the post-war world for the comfort not of the run-aways, but of the stay-behinds who met disaster heroically on their own ground.

Masquerade Party Of Lutherans Attracts 60

Family Circle Party Proves Success

About 60 attended the masquerade party of the Lutheran Family Circle Wednesday in Trinity Lutheran parish house, an excellent cooperative supper being served at the close of the grand march of the masked guests. Mrs. Austin D. Duden, Elmer Wolf and John Hummel served as judges and small gifts were presented to the winning 10 adults and the 10 best masked children.

Supper was served at tables featuring covers of black and having party appointments in orange. Orange candles cast a soft glow over the unusual decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Martin were responsible for the effective arrangements.

All participated in games and contests arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Luther List and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammel, the usual business session of the circle being omitted for the evening.

It was announced that the next meeting, November 26, will be in the parish house.

Key-Porter Nuptials

Blue velvet was worn by Miss Lucille Porter when she exchanged nuptial vows October 31 with Carson Kelley in the Kingston Methodist church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Porter of Chillicothe. Members of the immediate families were present for the ceremony read at 2 p. m. by the Rev. L. R. Wilkin.

Touches of lace at throat and wrist trimmed Miss Porter's wedding frock and her only jewelry was a cameo pin which had belonged to her great grandmother.

Mrs. George Borders, Kingston, presented a program of wedding music.

A graduate of Kingston high school in 1940, the former Miss Porter is employed in the AAA offices of the Department of Agriculture, Columbus.

NIGHT COUGHS

YOUR CHILD'S coughing at night—caused by throat "tickles" or irritation, mouth breathing, or a cold—can often be prevented by rubbing throat and chest with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime.

VAPORUB'S poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation, helps clear upper air passages, thus tends to stop mouth breathing and soothes and invites restful sleep. Try it!

Try this great blood-iron tonic—Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS (with added iron)—one of the very best ways to get iron into the blood. Pinkham's Tablets are also famous to relieve symptoms of functional monthly disturbances because of their soothing effect on one of woman's most important organs. Follow label directions.

HOW SWEET IS SUGAR

The sugar shortage has raised a battle behind the scenes between medical experts and the sugar industry regarding the true value of sugar. The sugar barons are aroused to a fighting pitch, are spending handsome hunks of dough to prevent the American public from being weaned away from sugar.

Current shortages have reduced sugar sharply in the American diet, but the medical profession has stepped forward to reassure the public that all is well, that the sacrifice will not injure health. Even the conservative Medical Association, through its committee on Nutrition, has come out with articles in the AMA Journal, casting doubts on the value of sugar as normally consumed in this country. It suggests that soft drinks, lollipops, the bedside box of candy, the three heaping teaspoons in the coffee cup are not exactly essential to winning the war.

The medicos do not question that sugar provides energy, but they do suggest that America's "excessive" use of sugar could be reduced without harm to the nation's health.

Reassuring as this may be to the public, it has the opposite effect on the sugar industry. The barons, led by New York sugar brokers Lamson and Co., have organized an "Institute" to combat the "dangerous" influence of the American Medical Association.

The Institute accuses the A.M.A. of being in conspiracy with dieticians and the Government to mislead the American people and to ruin the sugar market for the post-war period.

LA GUARDIA'S OLEO

Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York likes to use the "T-for-mation" or lightning attack, appearances before Congressional committees. An experienced and very able former Congressman, he keeps others on the defensive while he drives home his points.

However, Fearless Fiorella gained little yardage through the House Agricultural Committee when he testified for a bill to eliminate an oleomargarine tax. Republican Representative Chas. Hope of Kansas nailed him at the start by inquiring when LaGuardia had changed his position on oleo.

"In 1931 we had a bill to regulate oleo and the gentleman favored it," said Hope. "In fact, he spoke for it."

"I got in trouble with Bill Green on an oleo bill once," confessed LaGuardia. "Bill was for it and I was against it."

HOW SWEET IS SUGAR

The sugar shortage has raged a battle behind the scenes between medical experts and the sugar industry regarding the true value of sugar. The sugar barons are aroused to a fighting pitch are spending handsome hunks of dough to prevent the American public from being weaned away from sugar.

Current shortages have reduced sugar sharply in the American diet, but the medical profession has stepped forward to reassure the public that all is well and the sacrifice will not injure health. Even the conservative Medical Association, through its committee on Nutrition, has come out with articles in the AMA Journal, casting doubts on the value of sugar as normally consumed in this country. It suggests that soft drinks, lollipops, the bedside bowl of candy, the three heaping teaspoons in the coffee cup are no exactly essential to winning the war.

The medicals do not question that sugar provides energy, but they do suggest that America's "excessive" use of sugar could be reduced without harm to the nation's health.

Reassuring as this may be to the public, it has the opposite effect on the sugar industry. The barons, led by New York sugar brokers Lamborn and Co., have organized an "Institute" to combat the "dangerous" influence of the American Medical Association. The Institute accuses the A.M.A. of being in conspiracy with dictators and the Government to mislead the American people and to ruin the sugar market for the post-war period.

LA GUARDIA'S OLEO

Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York likes to use the "T-for-mation" or lightning attack, in appearances before Congressional committees. An experienced, very able former Congressman, he keeps others on the defensive while he drives home his points. However, Fearless Fiorella gained little yardage through the House Agricultural Committee when he testified for a bill to eliminate an oleomargarine tax. Republican Representative Chas. Hope of Kansas nailed him at the start by inquiring when LaGuardia had changed his position of oleo.

"In 1931 we had a bill to regulate oleo and the gentleman favored it," said Hope. "In fact, he spoke for it."

"I got in trouble with Bill Green on an oleo bill once," confessed LaGuardia. "Bill was for it and was against it."

"No, it was the other way around," insisted Hope. "The record shows that the gentleman was for the bill and Green against it. The Kansas quoted from LaGuardia's remarks in 1931, bearing this out. LaGuardia shifted easily in his seat. Hope's colleagues giggled.

"Oh well, we were not at all then, were we?" the Little Flower finally replied, emphasizing the present bill was an "emergency" measure.

LORRAINE ELLIOTT GUEST

Lorraine Elliott, who left her home town of Huron, Michigan a few years ago to make her way as a singer, will be the girl guest on the "Bob Crosby and Company" airshow Sunday at 9:30 p. m. over NBC. The origination point of this week's program is the U. S. Marine Training Station at Camp Pendleton, San Diego, California. Miss Elliott began her musical career singing leads in high school operettas and then joined a local dance band. Ray Noble heard her and she was hired as his featured vocalist. During the last two years she has been playing Hollywood night club dates and entertaining servicemen in camp shows and at Naval hospitals. The girl guest will join Bob in a duet arrangement of "They're Either Too Young or Too Old." Miss Elliott will sing as her solo number "If That's the Way You Want It, Baby." Bob's guests of the evening, the Marines at Camp Pendleton, will take over the vocal for the top novelty tune of the day, "Pistol Packin' Mama." The "Lantern Slide" specialty will be "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey." The Bobcat band will do "South Rampart Street Parade," a jazz classic and one of the most popular recordings ever made by Bob Crosby.

BOB BURNS GUEST

The Toscanini of the bazooka, Bob Burns, will dust off his carpet bag and make a trip to Charlie McCarthy's show Sunday at 7 p. m. over NBC. Bob's famed bazooka is now the name for the new United States Army tank-destroyer. The Arkansas traveler will attempt to give Edgar Bergen's versatile woodenhead some pointers on the playing of his unique instrument. Mortimer Snerd, Charlie's country cousin, will sit in on the musical session.

LANDIS, CARSON

"George Washington Slept Here," a comedy of a wife who collects antique and winds up the owner of a ramshackle home, allegedly visited by the first President, will be the "Screen Guild Players" presentation, on Monday, November 9, at 9 p. m., over station WBNS. Carole Landis and Dick Carson star in the adaptation of the hit film.

TRANSPORTATION CORPS

The little known but highly effective transportation Corps of the Army Service Forces, will be featured in the Army Service Forces Present "Twenty-Four Hours," on Saturday at 9:15 p. m., over station WCOL. It is the story of the part played by a railway operating battalion of the Military Railway Service, in the advance landings in Sicily. Despite the hazards of mine fields, bombing raids and strafing by enemy ground troops, trains laden with vital supplies were moving ahead, within twenty-four hours after the transportation corps had taken over. Lt. Col. William Slater is the narrator, Capt. Harry Salter directs the music.

MOORE, DURANTE

Jimmy Durante, who wears a red nose for Harvard, will discourse on the benefits of modern education, on Friday at 9 p. m., over WBNS. Jimmy and Garry Moore, not satisfied with wrecking the old red schoolhouse, muscle in on Wall Street in a sketch on high pressure banking. Georgia Gibbs' solo spot is the laughable lament, "They're Either Too Young or Too Old." Roy Bargy conducts the orchestra.

MURDERER'S AUTOGRAPH

In honor of their swoon-singing idol, the bobby socks brigade tries to create a bigger and better fan club. When they find themselves screaming for police, instead of encores, the "D. A." takes over, in "The Case of the Fan Club Murderer," on Wednesday, November 10, at 8:30 p. m., over WLW. Jay Jostyn, as "Mr. District Attorney," uncovers some evidence that lands the murderer in the Death House, while the fan club uncorks some aromatic sprays of ammonia. Vicki Vola and Len Doyle are the "D. A.'s" valued assistants, Miss Miller and Harrington.

IDA LUPINO

It can happen only in radio, but Groucho Marx looks for a domestic and comes up with a tasty maid as you can find--in Ida Lupino! This bit of wishful thinking occurs on "Blue Ribbon Town" Saturday at 7 p. m., over WBNS. The program will be aired from

ARMSTRONG AND MOSTEL

Zero Mostel, who graduated from "The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" to Broadway, Hollywood and the Army, is an added starter to the program, Sunday at 8:15 p. m., over WLW. Mostel makes his first radio appearance since his discharge from active service. Louis Armstrong, the man with the trumpet, occupies the second guest spot, giving with Maestro Paul Lavalie and his barefoot boys of the blues, "Dr." Milton J. Cross and "Giacomo" McCarthy are busily polishing up their brass knuckles in preparation.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

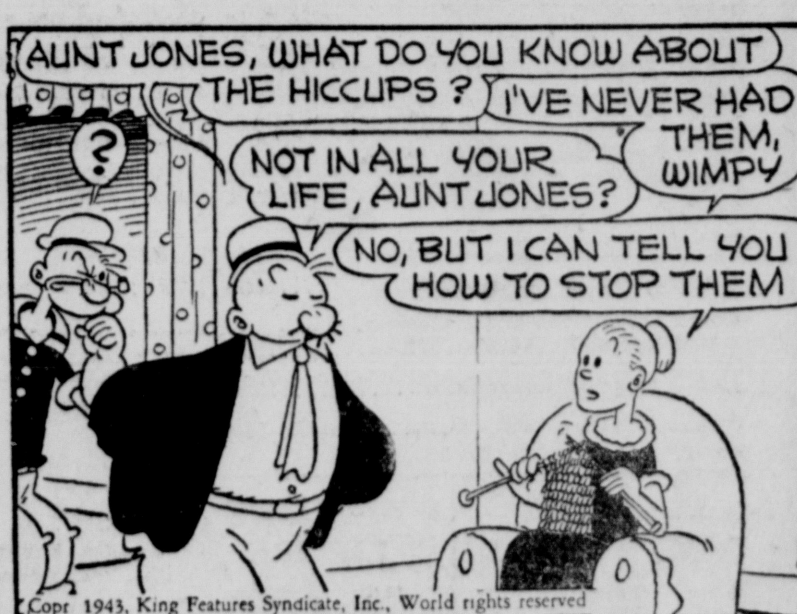

Paul Lavalie, who bats the no doubt world-renowned musical geniuses on "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" will finally reveal how they got that way when he is interviewed on "Nellie Revell Presents" over NBC Saturday, November 6 at 9 a. m.

IDA LUPINO

It can happen only in radio, but Groucho Marx looks for a domestic and comes up with as tasty a maid as you can find—in Ida Lupino! This bit of wishful thinking occurs on "Blue Ribbon Town," Saturday at 7 p. m., over WBNS. The program will be aired from

ARMSTRONG AND MOSTEL

Zero Mostel, who graduated from "The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" to Broadway, Hollywood and the Army, is an added starter to the program, Sunday at 8:15 p. m., over WLW. Mostel makes his first radio appearance since his discharge from active service. Louis Armstrong, the man with the trumpet, occupies the second guest spot, living with Maestro Paul Lavalle and his barefoot boys of the blues, "Dr." Milton J. Cross and "Giacomo" McCarthy are busily polishing up their brass knuckles in preparation.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Paul Lavalle, who bats the no doubt world-renowned musical geniuses on "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" will finally reveal how they got that way when he is interviewed on "Nellie Revell Presents" over NBC Saturday, November 6 at 9 a. m.

Finances Claim Attention Of Circleville Law Makers

POLICE, FIREMEN WAGE INCREASE ORDER DELAYED

Ordinance Tabled Pending Further Investigation Of Consequences

OTHERS SEEK ADVANCES

Mayor Congratulated For Court Collections Made During October

Circleville council engaged in one of its lengthy discussion sessions Wednesday night with finances demanding much attention from the law makers.

An ordinance prepared by Solicitor Joe W. Adkins at the request of the finance committee calling for increases in pay for firemen and policemen, the former $15 a month and the latter $10 a month, was tabled pending investigation of the council's authority. Question of council's right to lower wages after once boosting them was brought up by Councilman Don Mason, who recalled that Chillicothe was forced to float a bond issue for $16,000 to pay claims of city employees whose salaries were slashed after they were once increased.

"I feel that the city should play safe in granting these boosts," Mason said. "If we raise the pay scales, we should know whether we have a right to reduce them."

New Pay Schedule

Under the new schedule, planned to go into effect January 1, policemen will receive $135 and firemen $130 a month.

Two additional requests for pay boosts were read from Mrs. Mae

M. Groome, city health nurse, and Mrs. Harriett Wallace, clerk of the health board and registrar of vital statistics. Each asks $25 a month increase, the former now being paid $150 and the latter $50 a month. Mrs. Wallace also earns about $125 annually from registering births and deaths, she said.

Both city employees call attention to the higher cost of living and the fact that the state board of health has increased its subsidy to the city.

Amounts in the various funds include: general, $16,847.47; library, $1,762.94; sewage disposal, $12,079.36; auto street repair, $5,022.15; gasoline tax, $1,762.25.

Solicitor Adkins was instructed by council to prepare a blank form on which Auditor Lillian Young will file financial reports, showing council the city's exact financial status, including bills to be paid, amounts in various funds, and other details.

Directors Pay Considered

Other financial matters discussed included a revision in the salary of Safety-Service Director Clarence Helvering, who is receiving the same amount of money now that he was paid before he took over the safety director, health director and Berger hospital supervisor job. Solicitor Adkins suggested that council's finance committee take action at once. Need for more money for special policemen was voiced by Councilman W. M. Reid, who said Chief W. F. McCrady had told him the appropriation was gone. Council's safety committee headed by Ray Cook was instructed to check with the chief since an appropriation for this fund was made two weeks ago.

Question of a contract with the Township Volunteer Fire association for the rural truck housed in the local fire department building and manned by Circleville firemen was brought up, with Solicitor Adkins reported that a representative of the State Inspection Bureau will be in Circleville during the next few days to confer with council and the fire association committee.

The rural truck has been in operation more than three years, but a contract has never been worked out between the city and the association. Question of liability in case of collisions on rural roads is another problem to be settled.

Nine townships joined in the financial campaign to provide funds for purchase of the truck, which has been valuable in fighting rural blazes. It is also available for use in Circleville if needed.

Police Car Insurance

Liability insurance for Circleville's police cars, service trucks and other vehicles was discussed, with the safety committee being advised to check on the cost of sufficient insurance to protect the city in case of claims.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon was congratulated by council for his collections during October. Fines amounted to only $82.50, all the money coming from state highway patrol cases and therefore being earmarked for street repair, but bonds amounted to $503, making a total of $585.50 going into the city treasury from the mayor's office.

Railroads received some attention also during the meeting. Councilmen Boyd Horn and Ray B. Anderson complaining about conditions at south end crossings. Horn recalled that the Norfolk and Western and Pennsylvania railroads had been asked numerous times to correct conditions at their crossings. A walk across the N. and W. rails at Clinton street is the most pressing need at the present time, councilmen said. Council also discussed cooperation with St. Joseph's Catholic church in a program to be started soon in the church's recreation center. Council is unable to provide any assistance in a program of this sort beyond cooperating as individuals with organizations assisting the church.
